New on New York Heritage

Woodstock Community Films, contributed by Woodstock Public Library District. This selection of videos from the early 1970s explore a variety of cultural, social and political experiences in and around Woodstock, NY. They were originally produced by Woodstock Community Video, Inc., whose mission was to create alternative cable programming, provide documentary coverage of local events, and stimulate community activism.

Regional Inter-library Loan Code Update

The Southeastern region has maintained an Inter-library Loan code since the mid-1980s. This code lays out best practices for borrowing and lending materials through ILL. It provides helpful information on how to deal with ILL issues such as lost books, damaged items, invoicing libraries, and paying fines.

Southeastern's Regional Inter-library Loan Committee (RIC) reviews this code every year to see if changes need to be made. The last code update was completed in 2017. At that time, ALA's Inter-library Loan Code was adopted as our regional code, with some provisions and exceptions specific to the Southeastern area. In 2023, ALA released a revised version of the national code. RIC carefully reviewed and discussed the changes that were made. As a result, they are recommending that the updated ALA code be adopted as our new regional code along with two additional exceptions.

RIC is inviting librarians and inter-library loan staff in the region to review and comment on the proposed changes to the ILL code before it is formally adopted. We have a page on our website where a copy of the updated code and a link to our comment form can be found. The comment period will run through 10/31/2024. After the comment period has ended, RIC will meet to consider all comments and make changes to the document as appropriate. Then, RIC will ask for final approval of the code by all eight regional library systems. Please contact kelsey@senylrc.org with any questions!
